学習目的・目標	The main goal of this course is to develop students' reading skills using a textbook that deals with a wide range of topics including culture, art, language, science, medicine, etc. The class will focus more on how to grasp main ideas in a text quickly than on grammatical analysis or translation of individual sentences. Toward the end of the semester, the course will deal with topics on health and medicine so that students can prepare for more advanced courses in the later years.
